What is The PAR²A Center?

The mission of the Paraprofessional Resource and Research (PAR²A) Center at the School of Education and Human Development, University of Colorado Denver, is to develop a qualified and effective workforce consisting of degreed and non-degreed personnel in the fields of early intervention, education, and human services. The Center focuses on enhancing education and services for all children and youth through policy creation, professional development, and research regarding personnel roles and responsibilities, coaching and mentoring, and career ladders.

Your Permission

The PAR²A Center requests your permission to use videos/photos/audio recordings of you or your child as part of the National Intervener Certification E-Portfolio of _____. The purpose of the e-portfolio is to certify interveners across the country and recognize them as qualified personnel. All media of you or your child will be kept in a password-protected system and viewed by designated individuals including the PAR²A Center staff, the candidate listed above, their mentor, and reviewers. All individuals who see media of you or your child are required to sign statements agreeing to keep media of you or your child confidential.
